He was 19 years and she 17 years old. After their marriage they walked 12 miles to Jordan Mountain, carrying all their worldly possessions with them. The clothes they wore, an axe, sickle, a bushel of wheat and some buck-wheat. The bride's clothes were all made by hand by her and her mother from shearing the sheep, carding th wool, weaving into cloth and sewing. Her shoes were made by her father. They chose a spot for their home and built a log cabin. Mary was very skillful in making medicine from herbs and tree barks, and was for many years the only doctor in that part of the country. Walking many miles summer and winter to help the sick. They had 12 children.
